

The Nation's Health, May/June 2013, Volume 43, No. 4

Nation

Eleven health departments first to attain public health accreditation:
Measuring capacity

Communities using annual rankings to improve health: Program tracks, measures county health

School breakfasts beneficial for student health, education: Serving meals in class shows promise

Sequestration cuts predicted to put health at risk: Five percent reduction made to federal public health programs

Study predicts primary care shortage for 7 million Americans in 2014

School-based health centers emerge as resources for dropout prevention

Parity law has increased use of mental health, substance use care

Flu vaccine effectiveness low among seniors

School cafeteria design shown to influence healthy eating habits

Schools, child care centers key to improving youth physical activity

CDC launches latest round of hard-hitting anti-smoking ad campaign

Nation in Brief

State & Local

Utah residents use social media to share journey to quitting smoking

States in Brief

Globe

Taiwan weight-loss program helps country shed 2,000 tons

Globe in Brief

Healthy You

Nutritional supplements: Do your research first

- Always read supplement labels

Health Findings

Health Findings

On the Job

CDC calls on health professionals to target antibiotic-resistant bacteria

Public health laboratories must increase capacity, assessment finds

On the Job In Brief

General

Correction

APHA News

Make plans now for APHA's 141st Annual Meeting: 13,000 expected for meeting to be held Nov. 2-6 in Boston

Association members propose 26 new policy statements

Congressional resolutions honor National Public Health Week 2013

APHA public health webinars to focus on extreme heat, drought

APHA now offering year-round online continuing education

Updated book reflects advances in infectious disease epidemiology

APHA Advocates

President's Column

Social justice, health equity and healthy communities

Journal Watch

Journal Watch

Sections

Engagement key in first part of Health Administration Section strategic plan

Podiatric Health Section effort charts decades of group's history

Sections in Brief

Web-only News

Online-only: Smokers with broken bones heal less quickly, study says [e16]

Online-only: Seat belt safety takes a backseat among drivers traveling familiar roads, study says [e17]

Online-only: Predicting menopause earlier may help slow bone loss [e18]

Online-only: Public health extras: News on calcium, hypertension, smoking, parks [e19]

Newsmakers: May/June 2013 [e20]

Resources: May/June 2013 [e21]