

UNC Charlotte Ph.D. in Public Health Sciences

Overview of the Ph.D. Program

Coursework emphasizes methodological rigor through development, application, and measurement of theory to understand the social and cultural factors that influence health behavior. The Public Health Sciences Ph.D. program is fully accredited by the Council on Education for Public Health (CEPH). Highly qualified applicants may earn graduate assistantships.

Our Faculty

Public Health Sciences faculty include nationally and internationally renowned scholars who guide students on their path to becoming well-rounded public health professionals. Throughout the doctoral program, students are provided with individualized guidance tailored to each individual's dissertation research.

UNC Charlotte

UNC Charlotte is North Carolina's vibrant, urban research university with an enrollment of more than 29,000 representing 49 states and 85 different countries. A small campus feel within a metropolitan setting, UNC Charlotte's contemporary and dynamic environment is backdropped by one of the fastest growing and modern cities in the US.

Secure Your Public Health Legacy

With a Gift

In Your Will or Living Trust

Interested in helping APHA create the healthiest nation in one generation?

A simple, flexible and versatile way to help us continue our work for years to come is a gift in your will or living trust, known as a charitable bequest.

A bequest to APHA ensures that we can continue to protect the health of all people and all communities. Your gift also entitles your estate to an unlimited federal estate tax charitable deduction.

To learn more about making a gift through a will or living trust, call 202-777-2486.

The American Public Health Association is a 501c3 charitable organization. Contributions are tax deductible.
