

The Nation's Health, January 2014, Volume 43, No. 10

Nation

Affordable Care Act brings new benefits as marketplace enrollment progresses: Reform advancing

Firearm injuries in US have resulted in billions of dollars in care costs

State & Local

Organization opens Mississippi's first LGBT health care center

Barbershop-based program educates young black men about safe sex, STIs

Galveston project works to involve community in rebuilding after storm

Dental program begun in Ecuador helps Kentucky kids

The calm after Hurricane Sandy: Public health leaders reflect on preparedness

Massachusetts reform has lessened some disparities, but gaps remain

Healthy You

Caffeine: Don't let your pick-me-up drag you down

- Recognizing the signs of a habit

General

Citizenship status affects cancer screening rates in non-US natives

Alcohol, acetaminophen mix puts kidney health at risk, study finds

CDC brings public health perspective, lessons to childhood maltreatment

Report finds no break in fast food marketing to kids, teens

Despite bans, secondhand smoke still affects some workers

Health-in-all-policies guide can help communities plan for better health

Health investment lags, especially in resource-poor neighborhoods

Air pollution linked to insulin resistance, diabetes prevalence

Study: Television viewing, TVs in bedrooms tied to less sleep for kids

Forum seeks to help public health 'catch the wave' of change

APHA News

APHA's 141st Annual Meeting draws thousands to Boston: Meeting spotlights local, global health

New APHA sets reinvigorated course for future of Association: New values, vision announced in Boston

Members elect Kumanyika as next APHA president: Three executive board members, vice presidents also named

National Public Health Week to lead Americans along path to well-being

APHA codeathon creates apps to aid health reform: Programmers, public health professionals combine forces

Meeting Findings

Association Governing Council adopts policy statements, updates APHA bylaws

Summaries of 2013 policy statements adopted by APHA's Governing Council in Boston: New statements address issues such as paid sick leave, workplace injuries, access to nature, noise pollution

Annual Meeting attendees learn about social media, public health at free lab

Attendees at the Annual Meeting share their thoughts

APHA Annual Report shows Association's health work

Expo Best Booth Contest winners named at APHA Annual Meeting

APHA seeking abstracts for New Orleans Annual Meeting

APHA calls for 2014 policy statements: Submissions due via email by Feb. 19

APHA seeking nominations for organization leadership positions

New APHA calendar uses dogs to tell the 'tail' of preparedness

Photos from APHA's 141st Annual Meeting now available online

President's Column

In your service as APHA president: strengthening the health workforce

Sections

APHA recognizes member group achievements, outreach at meeting

Member groups volunteer, tour meeting host city: Scavenger hunt, walking tour mark Annual Meeting in Boston

Scholarship allows students to attend APHA Annual Meeting

APHA member groups present health awards at Annual Meeting

Affiliates

Arizona recognized as APHA's Outstanding Affiliate of the Year

Council of Affiliates honors groups for advocacy, professional development

Web-only News

Online-only: Mixing alcohol, energy drinks dangerous to health [e52]

Online-only: Most Americans have no plans for end-of-life care, study says [e53]

Online-only: Eating a healthier diet can cost more per day, study says [e54]

Newsmakers: January 2014 [e55]

Resources: January 2014 [e56]